Argus Global Conferences

Expand your network and thrive in complex commodity markets.

Argus conferences bring together every year more than 10,000 commodity market participants to make valuable connections, network, and obtain insights into the intricacies of global energy and commodity markets. Our conferences offer you valuable and in-depth content on industries such as biofuels, crude and oil products, fertilizers, chemicals, power generation, and transportation.

Agendas are built using a rigorous research process in collaboration with industry experts to provide you with pinpointed market information to help you plan for what's next.

Dynamic networking opportunities such as interactive workshops and roundtables, objective setting group debates, networking lounges and meeting zones provide you with opportunities to build meaningful partnerships with decision makers.

You can be confident in expanding your network whilst getting closer to the markets that matter most to you at an Argus conference.

Please contact our team directly via conferencesupport@argusmedia.com for more information about sponsorship, attendance or speaking.
